HOTEL OVERVIEW

On 29 June 2002, the Altiplanico San Pedro de Atacama Hotel is inaugurated. One of the number one destinations in South America is San Pedro de Atacama, with its countless and incredible geological formations, thermal baths, salt lakes and volcanoes. Its varied flora and fauna attracts nature lovers, as well as athletes who seek challenges. San Pedro is also full of cultural and archaeological richness that remembers the magnificent past of the indigenous Atacameño culture. From sunrise on the Geysers del Tatio, surrounded by rugged mountains and snowcapped volcanoes, until the Golden reflections of the sunset reflect on the salty lagoons, where Chilean Flamingoes nest, San Pedro is breathtaking.

ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN

The desert is beautiful because of its silence; which was our greatest inspiration and concern in the hotel development. The decoration and architecture were developed under the concept of visual silent, by inserting the hotel into the vastness of the landscape, decreasing the burden of both colors inside and outside the hotel. Its construction is entirely adobe, stones, and other noble materials, such as tar and straw, combined in a very particular way rustic style, with the refinement of its finishes and decoration. The simplicity of the materials, with good taste and aesthetic disposition thereof, gives the feeling of being in a small Highland Village. The decoration is based on an ethnic style, seeking to highlight roots and the warmth of its people. Also, the hotel allows you to enjoy the silence and the view, refuged from the intense climate of San Pedro.

ROOMS

Using different resources of color and shape, the rooms are decorated with simplicity and delicacy all at the same time, having a terrace to sit and enjoy the view. Each room is unique and has its own distribution and decoration. The hotel boasts 31 rooms arranged in three circles, with cultivated fields in between. We offer single, double and triple rooms, structured on the basis of separate houses to each other, with individual terraces, private bathroom, and independent entrances both from parking lots to the central garden, swimming pool, cafeteria and reception. Some rooms have outdoors showers to enjoy the starry sky.

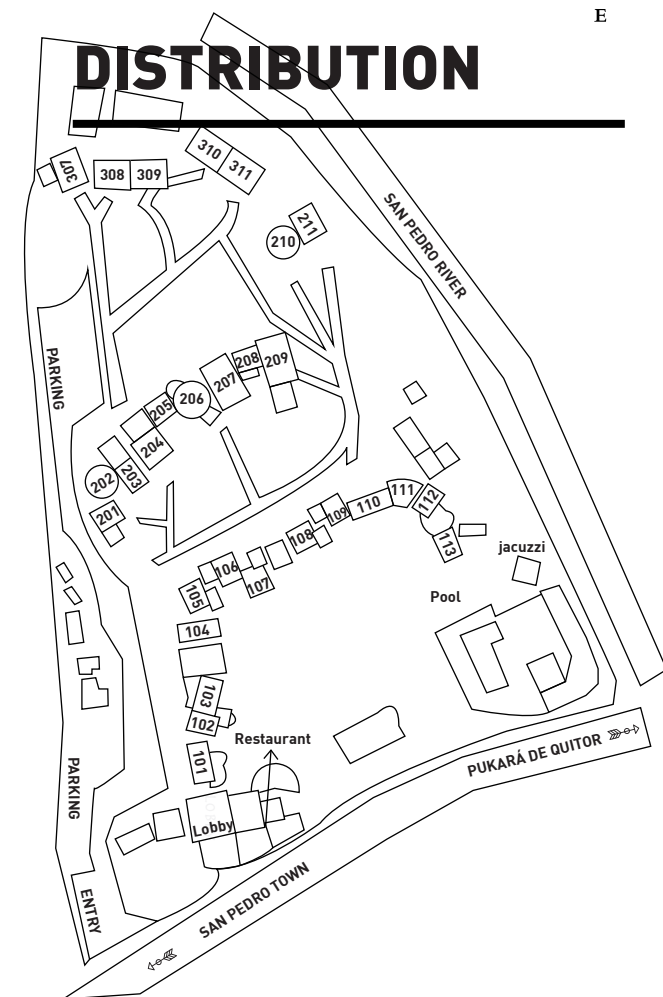

CELEBRATIONS

In the Altiplánico San Pedro de Atacama Hotel, one can celebrate honeymoons, birthdays and any special occasion allowing one to move away from the city and enjoy the beauty that Saint Peter offers. For Christmas and New Year, we offer a special menu in the restaurant and it's accompanied by small decorations to liven up the place and enjoy these dates next to this beautiful and varied landscape.
